

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE
DEFENSE INTELLIGENCE SCHOOL
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20374

30 November 1978

STAT

Washington, D. C.

Dear [redacted]

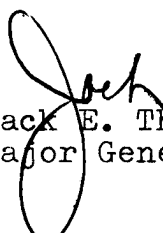

STAT

Your recent presentation at the Defense Intelligence School seminar on "Development and Future of the Intelligence Community" was very much appreciated by both me and all of the members of the class.

All of the students had read E.O. 12036 and were aware of some of the controversy involved in the evolution of the DCI role in the budget field; so they were particularly interested in what you had to say.

In my view, you were the ideal person to discuss resource management problems with the class, not only because of your background of experience in the field but, also, because you have a finely honed skill when it comes to the communication of ideas.

My sincere thanks for a job very well done.

Jack E. Thomas
Major General USAF (Ret.)